

SALLR 2020

LIVE BROADCASTS

LAST FREE DEMO

Tuesday, 19 May 2020

Why don't we meet this year as usual?

By the time that the SALLR seminars are normally presented countrywide (August to September), we expect to still be caught up in one of the alert levels of the lockdown or, alternatively, still be subject to severe restrictions on our movement. Furthermore, an extremely important consideration is the health and safety of the SALLR community. We have, therefore, taken the decision to conduct the SALLRs' 36th annual seminar by means of various live broadcasts this year.

Studio set up to be utilised during the live broadcasts?

A broadcast studio has been designed in a 100m² studio space that permits the usage, during the live broadcast, of all the elements that you have become accustomed to, such as, PowerPoint presentations, flipcharts and entertainment.

As has been the custom for the last couple of years, Brian van Zyl will again present this year's SALLR seminar from a lectern. However, as can be seen from the walkthrough video, during the live broadcasts this year, important announcements will be made from a desk area and discussions will be facilitated from a leisure chair area.

Technical support?

Live broadcasting will be achieved by means of streaming. The SALLR team has secured an extremely competent crew, with vast technical experience, to provide the required technical support during the broadcasts. Professional lighting, the utilisation of quality microphones and state-of-the-art video equipment will ensure an enhanced experience during the live broadcast.

Dates for the live broadcasts countrywide?

The SALLRs' 36th annual seminar will be broadcast live, countrywide, on the following days:

- Wednesday, 12 August 2020
- Monday, 24 August 2020
- Thursday, 27 August 2020
- Tuesday, 1 September 2020
- Thursday, 3 September 2020

You can split your attendance?

The upcoming SALLR live broadcast circuit further caters for busy practitioners in that a delegate is permitted to 'split' attendance amongst any three sessions – e.g. on one day attend up to tea time, on another day attend from tea time to lunchbreak and, on the third day, attend the afternoon session.

Fees freeze?

The SALLR team has decided to freeze the registration fees for 2020 and the fees below are inclusive of VAT:

- normal fee:
One delegate: R4 350.00
- Non-profit organisations:
R3 500.00 per delegate
